

Embrace change for better product stability

Protein stability and preventing aggregation is crucial when developing therapies. That's why it's time to leave flow cell imaging behind. With Aura PTx, there's a better way to perform particle analysis.

